

Introduction to the TEI header

As we learned in our encoding exercise this morning

<TEI>

TEI document

<teiHeader>

...

This is “the header”.

</teiHeader>

<text>

...

This is “the body”.

(There are actually alternatives to <text>.)

</text>

</TEI>

* And remember that there’s an element called <body> which is just one of the children of <text>.

See the handout for an overview of the header and its relation to library cataloging practice.

Questions?